

THE HEART OF THE MATTER

Radicalization on the Homefront Tuesday, January 26, 7:00 p.m.

How does violent radicalism draw followers? Lorenzo Vidino, director of George Washington University's Program on Extremism, explains what motivates young Americans to take part in violent jihad, whether abroad with the Islamic State or at home in the U.S.

Diplomacy in Afghanistan: An Inside View Monday, February 1, 7:00 p.m.

The war in Afghanistan is the longest in American history. Former U.S. envoy to Afghanistan, James Dobbins and former ambassador Ryan Crocker, discuss diplomacy, nation-building, and U.S.-Afghan relations since 9/11. Dobbins served as President Obama's Special Representative for Afghanistan and Pakistan. Crocker has been U.S. ambassador to no fewer than six countries—including Afghanistan, Pakistan, Iraq, and Syria—under four presidents.

The Fight Against ISIS Wednesday, February 24, 7:00 p.m.

With escalating terror attacks around the world, the need for a successful strategy to combat ISIS is urgent and growing. Ambassador Frederic C. Hof, former Special Adviser for Transition in Syria at the State Department, discusses how ISIS can be contained.

HEART OF THE MATTER (CONTINUED)

Journey Through a Turbulent World: From Kabul to the White House Wednesday, March 30, 7:00 p.m.

As a former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Afghanistan, and Iraq, Zalmay Khalilzad had a first-hand role in shaping U.S. foreign policy post 9/11. Coinciding with the release of his new book, "The Envoy: From Kabul to the White House, My Journey Through a Turbulent World," Khalilzad shares his unique perspective on the conflicts ravaging the greater Middle East today.

This program will be followed by a book sale and signing.

The Women of ISIS Wednesday, April 13, 7:00 p.m.

Why are women joining the Islamic State? ISIS is known to subjugate women, and yet women are joining up. Scholar Katherine E. Brown, who specializes in gender and terrorism, discusses how female jihadis fit into ISIS' pursuit of an extremist utopia.

Interviewing bin Laden Monday, May 2, 7:00 p.m.

John Miller, today the NYPD's Deputy Commissioner of Intelligence and Counterterrorism, famously interviewed Osama bin Laden in Afghanistan in May 1998 for ABC News. Miller looks back on that interview and offers unique insight into current counterterrorism strategies.

Turkey in Turmoil Thursday, June 9, 7:00 p.m.

A peninsula bordered by eight countries, including Syria, Iraq, and Iran, Turkey occupies a critical position in the Middle East. In the face of the threat posed by ISIS, Turkey's policies have generated tensions with the U.S. and other NATO allies. Dr. Henri J. Barkey, director of the Middle East Program at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, discusses the impact of Turkey's domestic and regional policies on the fight against ISIS.

THROUGH THEIR LENS

9/11 and the American Landscape

Tuesday, April 5, 7:00 p.m.

Photographer Jonathan C. Hyman documented grassroots memorials after 9/11. His archive of over 20,000 images focuses on tributes from the tristate area, beginning just after 9/11 and running through the 10th anniversary. Hyman joins Dr. Jan S. Ramirez, the Museum's Chief Curator and Vice President of Collections, to discuss the iconography of commemoration and the varieties of popular response to 9/11 captured in his photographs.

This program is presented in conjunction with the Museum's exhibition, "Beyond Ground Zero: 9/11 and the American Landscape," which can be viewed by program attendees between 6:00 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. The program will be followed by a book sale and signing.

Hope at Ground Zero

Wednesday, May 18, 7:00 p.m.

Photographer Andrea Booher arrived as part of a team of photographers at Ground Zero on September 12, 2001, to chronicle the work of the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Urban Search and Rescue Teams. She spent the next 10 weeks documenting the search for survivors and the shift from rescue to recovery. Booher joins Amy S. Weisser, the Museum's Vice President of Exhibitions, to discuss her time at Ground Zero and the extraordinary people whose work she photographed.

This program is presented in conjunction with the Museum's new special exhibition, "Hope at Ground Zero," which can be viewed by program attendees between 6:00 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

INTERFAITH CONVERSATIONS

Not in God's Name: Confronting Religious Violence

Tuesday, March 22, 7:00 p.m.

The deepest questions of belief converge on both the events connected to 9/11 and the extremist violence engulfing the world today. What should our response be when religious texts are invoked to justify violence? Rabbi Lord Jonathan Sacks, author of the bestselling book "Not in God's Name: Confronting Religious Violence" and the former Chief Rabbi of the UK and Commonwealth, explores the complex connection between religion and violence, and the potential of faith to promote peace.

Pope Francis at Ground Zero and the Power of Coming Together

Monday, April 18, 7:00 p.m.

In September, Pope Francis led a Multireligious Meeting for Peace inside the 9/11 Memorial Museum. As a follow-up to this historic event, program participants Cardinal Timothy Michael Dolan, Rabbi Elliot J. Cosgrove, and Imam Khalid Latif return to the Museum to reflect on the pontiff's visit, and the importance of interfaith dialogue in a time of religious polarization.
