Professional Experience

Voices of September 11th New Canaan, CT

Founding Director September 2001 to Present

- Created a non-profit in the immediate aftermath of the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001 to provide information and access to resources and mental health care for all those impacted.
- Developed and implemented a wide array of community-based programs to address the immediate and long-term emotional needs of 9/11 families, responders and survivors
- Advocated for the respectful notification and handling of unidentified remains and personal affects, the establishment of the National September 11 Memorial & Museum (9/11 Memorial Museum) and the creation of the 9/11 Commission and implementation of sweeping intelligence reforms
- Communicated with local, state and federal organizations and government officials to promote effective preparedness and enhanced national security
- Using social work practices, developed the 9/11 Living Memorial Project to assist families through the emotional but therapeutic process of commemorating their loved ones by documenting their lives through photographs and personal keepsakes
- Through the 9/11 Living Memorial Project created an extensive digital collection of over 87,000 photographs documenting the 2,977 lives lost which is a core component of the In Memoriam exhibit at the 9/11 Memorial Museum in NYC
- Established high school and college internship program
- Created VOICES Center of Excellence for Community Resilience, leading research projects to examine the long-term needs of families and communities impacted by traumatic events and to document best practices for responding to acts of terrorism and mass violence.
- Advocated for victims' families, responders and survivors working with local, state and federal agencies:
 - As a member of the Coalition of 9/11 Families, worked with the Office of New York City Chief Medical Examiner and Property Clerk to create a system for a respectful notification process for identified human remains and personal effects, as well as the handling of unidentified human remains.
 - As a member of Lower Manhattan Development Committee (LMDC) Family Advisory Committee, advocated for the creation of an appropriate memorial (National September 11 Memorial & Museum) to honor the lives lost on 9/11.

- As a member of the 9/11 Family Steering Committee, advocated for the establishment of the 9/11 Commission. Once the 9/11 Commission Report was released, advocated for the implementation of their recommendations for sweeping intelligence reforms, as well as ongoing efforts to promote national security and response to the threat of terrorism.
- As a national and international victims' advocate and mental health professional, Ms. Fetchet has participated in hundreds of print and television interviews in the U.S. and abroad on a range of issues related to 9/11, including the long- needs of victims' families, responders and survivors, mental health and trauma, and public policy reforms to promote national security and preparedness

Ms. Fetchet has led the creation/co-authored four important publications:

- Preparing For After: How to Help Victims of Mass Violence, a resource kit identifying best practices in preparing for and responding to traumatic events, based on extensive research conducted in communities impacted by acts of mass violence – the Oklahoma City bombing, the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, and the shootings at Virginia Tech, Northern Illinois University and Tucson, Arizona.
- Investigating the Long-term Impact of Bereavement due to Terrorism: Factors that Contribute to Trauma, Grief, Growth and Resilience, a research study examining the long-term needs of family members of those who died on 9/11/2001 and in the 1985 bombing of Air India Flight 182.
- VOICES of Experience: Helping Communities Heal After Traumatic Events, a two-day training based in part on VOICES Preparing for After and subsequent research findings related to recent acts of mass violence and natural disasters. The training assists community stakeholders in planning for, responding to and recovering from traumatic events, taking into consideration the immediate, short-term and long-term requirements for recovery.
- Knowledge to Practice Tip sheets to provide guidance after acts of mass violence for victims' families, survivors, responders, mental health professionals, including mental health considerations and tips for talking with the media.
